

Tohoku University DRR Actions
Contributing to Global Disaster Resilience

Have SNS Surpassed Old Media?

The Situation in Japan as Seen from the 2024 Election

Graduate School of Information Sciences, Tohoku University
Kazunori Kawamura

References

- Kiyohara, Shoko. 2019. "Democracy Shaken by Fake News: An International Comparative Study of Japan, the US, and South Korea" Tokyo: Kyoiku Shuppan.
- Kawamura, Kazunori. 2021. "Electronic Voting and Japan's Election Governance: Guaranteeing Voting Rights in a Digital Society" Tokyo: Keio University Press.
- Tsuchiya, Hiroshi and Takahisa Kawaguchi, eds. 2022. "Hacked Democracy: Election Interference Risks in a Digital Society" Tokyo: Chikura Shobo.
- Kawamura, Kazunori. 2024. "Reflecting on the Tokyo 15th District By-election and Tokyo Gubernatorial Election (Parts 1 & 2)" "Monthly Komei," October and November 2024 issues.
- Kawamura, Kazunori. 2025. "The Relationship Between Elections and SNS Questioned in 2024: Key Points for Reform." "Reformer," February 2025 issue, pp. 32–36.

Acknowledgments: This report is supported by JSPS KAKENHI Grants (20H00059, 24K00217) and the Suntory Foundation.